

Christophe Rouillé

Head of Digital Transformation

Christophe Rouillé is Head of Digital Transformation, responsible for ATR's digital transition strategy and its implementation. Christophe joined the company at the end of 2018 as Head of Engineering Data Management, and then became Head of Engineering Continuous Improvement and Quality.

Before joining ATR, Christophe spent 18 years working at CIMPA, now a subsidiary of the Sopra-Steria group, where he held several positions. He began as a team manager, responsible for implementing new concepts relating to digital mock-ups, and was involved in the Airbus Concurrent Engineering (ACE) project before being appointed Department Manager, where he was responsible for configuration management, optimisation and digital mock-ups. In 2011, he took up the position of VP in charge of in-service lifecycle management, working closely with many players in the aeronautical sector (manufacturers, operators, MRO and airports).

Christophe began his career in 1990 as a designer, trainer and consultant in computer-aided design at C.A.S.O (Aircraft Design in Southwest France).
